INVITATION TO MARK

The book of Mark is one of four accounts of the life and teachings of Jesus in the New Testament. It is the shortest of all the eye-witness accounts of Jesus.

This book is written for a Roman audience—that is, for people whose first language was Latin, who lived at a distance from the land of Israel, and who were not familiar with Jewish customs. The book is written in Greek, the common language of the time, but it uses many Latin terms. The author explains Jewish customs, and he translates quotations from Jesus that are in Aramaic. He also notes that Simon of Cyrene, who carried Jesus' cross, was the father of Alexander and Rufus, expecting that his audience will know who these men are. A man named Rufus was a leader in the church at Rome.

But why was it written?

From the very first sentence, and working all the way through the Gospel, is the theme of the identity of Jesus: He is Jesus Christ, the Son of God. Mark says that the person of Jesus is the main focus of his gospel; he wants to tell us about Jesus and who he is.

Throughout his gospel Mark identifies Jesus and gives us the evidence that we need to understand who Jesus is.

But the message of Mark isn't just about the identity of Jesus, but why he came to earth. Jesus himself tells us several times why he has come (for example in Mark 1:38 Jesus says that he has come to preach). Three times we learn that Jesus must suffer and die (in chapters 8 to 10). But why? Mark then helps us to understand what Jesus came to do.

When Jesus first arrives in Galilee proclaiming the message of his kingdom he tells us what the right response to this news is: "Repent and believe." (Mark 1:15) Jesus makes it clear that the arrival of his kingdom demands a response. It's not possible to sit on the fence when it comes to the claims of Jesus. You can either accept him or reject him. Repent or don't. Believe that he is the Son of God, God's promised King, or don't. Over the course of the whole book Mark builds up a picture of what it looks like to repent and follow Jesus.

In Mark the tension centers around the identity of Jesus. If we think of the book as a drama, we may say that in its opening half, the tension is over the question: Who is this man?

This tension builds over the course of three acts:

- In the first act, Jesus teaches and heals the crowds that swarm to him.

- In the second act, Jesus encounters more conflict and opposition.
- In the third act, the disciples struggle more to understand who Jesus is.

Each act begins with a reference to Jesus calling or commissioning his disciples, and each one ends with an episode that calls attention to the question of his identity. The episode at the end of the third act shows Jesus healing a blind man in two stages, so that he slowly comes to see. This reflects the experience of the disciples, who have only gradually come to recognize who Jesus is. Then in the central episode of the whole story—between its two halves—Peter confesses that Jesus is the Messiah, the one bringing God's reign to earth.

Now the overt conflict begins. As the Messiah, Jesus has come to introduce a radical new way of life that will undercut existing power relationships. (Anyone who wants to be first must be the very last, and the servant of all.) This is threatening to those who are currently in power. As he and his disciples travel to Jerusalem for the Passover Festival, Jesus warns them three times that he will be betrayed and executed, but adds that in the ultimate triumph of God's plan, he will then rise from the dead.

The second half of the drama depicts this outcome, and it too does so in three acts:

- In the first act (which, significantly, also ends with the healing of a blind man), Jesus and his disciples travel to Jerusalem .
- In the second act, Jesus teaches in the temple and clashes with the established leadership .
- In the final act, this leadership executes its plan and has Jesus arrested and crucified, seemingly “overturning” all he has done. But then God “overturns” their deed and raises Jesus to life.

Readers of the story are thus called first to examine the identity of Jesus – who he is and why he came. Then, as they put their trust in him, to be faithful to Jesus, even if this means suffering the same fate he did. This is how God will continue to overturn the existing order and establish the way of life that Jesus taught. Implicit in this is the promise that God will “overturn” the death of believers just as he did that of Jesus. They too will be vindicated and raised to new life.
